I commend the Coastal Commission for its well-written document. I don't have any additional comments other than those that I offered at the January 8, 2014 Climate Collaborative meeting at the San Diego Foundation, which were:

1. That the reference to "vertical land motion" on page 8 is somehow linked to the NRC footnote #2 on page 4 that discusses the role that plate tectonics play in vertical land motion.
2. That the Coastal Commission seek to influence the legislature to revise CEQA so that CEQA may address Climate Change and Sea Level Rise in its environmental documents as a result of the court decision in Ballona Wetlands vs City of Los Angeles.
