

Dear California Coastal Commission,

My name is Dylan Bradsby from Piedmont Middle School. I'm 14 years old and my teacher, John White, talked to us in Green Team about global warming. He wants us to take this seriously and so he wants us to write you our letters.

If we don't stop polluting the air there will be more water in the future for everyone. We need to limit the stuff we do that pollutes the air. I hope you do something about this because it could mean that a lot more people will die each year from not having water or from the heat in the air.

The second proposal is that we preserve open space. It will not only provide space and homes for nature but will also will limit the pollution if there's enough preserved space. This is another important but simple idea to do.

Finally the third proposal is that there should be a conservation easement program. This will help identify, acquire, and manage areas appropriate for some form of conservation protection. A certain amount of people will look at a certain part of the coast and the other will look at a different part of the area so it will be easy to limit an area's air pollution.

Thank you for taking your time and reading this.

Sincerely,
Dylan Bradsby
